More Steel Price Increases Almost Sure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy planned today to start a delayed Florida vacation trip at 12:30 p.m. EST. The White House left open the possibility of some sort of statement on the steel price situation.

Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters an hour before the departure time that "I have no statement at this time." He said if there were one it would be issued by 12:30 p.m. "I cannot forecast," he said. "I do not discuss the possibility."

But he still was keeping a press plane, which usually takes off much earlier than the President, on the ground at Washington National Airport. He said he thought there was no question it would remain until after Kennedy's takeoff by jet plane from Andrews Air Force Base.

The press secretary declined to say anything about conferences the President had been holding during the morning or whether Kennedy had been in touch with any steel companies.

Hurried, worried, late-hour conferences gave ample evidence of President Kennedy's concern, but produced no word that he was ready to roll up the government guns that flattened last year's announced price hike in 72 hours.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of Naval operations, said today that "very reliable" that the Thresher has indeed been lost.

Anderson spoke at a news conference more than 24 hours after the nuclear-powered submarine carrying 129 officers, enlisted men and civilians was lost to contact some 220 miles east of Cape Cod in 8,480 feet of water.

Anderson said two main factors influenced his judgment: The salvage vessel recovery followed an oil slick detected Wednesday and found bits of cork used in internal construction of submarines.

Even if there had been a communications failure or the Thresher had gotten out of position in relation to its escort ship, the Skylark, "surely in the interim there would have been opportunity for the Thresher" to have re-established contact.

"I conclude with great regret and sadness that this fine ship with 129 souls aboard is lost," Anderson said.

He disclosed at the same time that orders had gone out to two other Thresher class submarines—the Permit and the Plunger—to limit the depth to which they dive pending determination whether there are metal faults in the hull or other weaknesses.

The naval chief said a court of inquiry will investigate, among other things, work done on the Thresher during overhaul at the Portsmouth, N.H. naval yard since last July.

He noted that in the course of this overhaul and modernization, involving installation of new equipment, cuts as much as a yard wide had been made in the Thresher's hull.

He said tests were made to find out if there were any weaknesses and the indications were there were none.

Anderson disclosed that the oil slick was sighted again this morning at 10:20 and this confirmed

Easter Is a Reality, Not a Tale

(This is another in a series by pastors of Hope dealing with the significance of Easter.)

"While those near to Jesus stood gazing up at the middle cross, there would seem to be an end of hope and a reality of death. The darkness overshadowed them as a nightmare. It was true that now He was dead.

"Just as true is the Reality of Easter. They knew He died. But now they know He lives. The angels announce it at the tomb. Jesus reveals it in the garden. The two on the road to Emmaus feel the impact of it. Their hopes have now become realities.

"The reality of Easter fills the hope of the individual as nothing else is able to do. Death is real but so is life in Christ."

Trial Now Up to District Judge Henley

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—It is now up to U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley whether the trial of a Pine Bluff Negro charged with assault with intent to kill in a racial incident will be tried in Pine Bluff.

Deadline for filing of briefs on motions for a change of venue in the trial of William Howard passed Wednesday with Jefferson County Prosecutor E. W. Brockman arguing that Howard can get a fair trial at Pine Bluff.

Howard's attorney, Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, failed to meet the deadline for filing a brief.

Henley gave no indication when he would decide the matter.

Howard is charged in connection with the wounding of Johnny Irwin, 17, a white student at integrated Dollarway school in Pine Bluff, Jan. 22. Howard had gone to pick up his niece, Sara Howard, and another Negro student.

The flare-up came when windows in Howard's station wagon were broken, police reported at the time. Irwin was cut on the face and body by a knife.

Howard contended he could not get a fair trial in the state court at Pine Bluff because of racial prejudice against integration in the area.

Trying to Find Out Who's Wright

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Craighead County Sheriff Lonnie Cooper is trying to find out who's Wright.

That is, is Jack Waldon Wright actually Jack Waldon Wright? Or is he Paul Wright. And if he is Paul Wright, is his wife Delma Price Wright? Or just Delma Pierce?

The whole issue is slightly confused.

When Cooper arrested a man and woman last Thursday night following an attempted holdup at a shooting at a Jonesboro service station, the two said they were Jack Waldon Wright, 26, of Orlando, Fla. and Delma Pierce Wright. They said they had been married 11 months.

But later the real (?) Jack Waldon Wright produced, in Orlando, a picture of the jailed man, identifying him as Paul Wright, his brother. The Orlando Wright is a chef at a restaurant.

Now Cooper's prisoners admits he isn't Jack Waldon Wright, but refuses to confirm that he is Paul. "Maybe so," he says when asked.

The identity of the woman is a little easier to figure out, Cooper said. He knew her as a Craighead County resident.

"I know she is Delma Pierce, But is she Delma Pierce Wright?" he asks.

The man Cooper arrested had a drivers license and identification papers on him showing he was Jack Waldon Wright. But the real (?) Jack Waldon says he lost the papers while his brother was visiting in Orlando last month.

Cooper says he will resort to the old foolproof method of sure identity: a fingerprint report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Rifleman Takes a Bride

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Chuck Connors and actress Kamala Devi Amesur were married Wednesday night, then left for a short honeymoon in Palm Springs.

Connors, 41, is the star of television's "Rifleman" show. It was his second marriage, the first for Mrs. Amesur, 29.

$1.3 Million Project Must Be Financed

In a wire from Congressman Oren Harris and Sen. Fulbright, the City of Hope has been notified that its application for advance engineering money of $43,000 has been approved.

This advance of federal money and the engineering plans are necessary preliminary work in connection with an application the City of Hope is filing for $700,000 in federal aid under the accelerated public works program of the federal government.

If Hope is successful in obtaining the federal aid, it can cover up to one half the cost of street and drainage improvements. The proposed application will provide federal funds and street improvement program of a $1,338,000.

The city's half of the cost would have to be provided by some method of financing, and the exact plans have not been worked out by the city officials.

Whatever plans for raising the local part of the cost will have to be approved by the citizens of Hope. Since the federal funds will be available only on a basis of 50% federal aid, the community will have to raise its part of the matching funds if it is to take advantage of federal money.

Detailed planning and engineering work in connection with this application will start immediately. The National Congress yesterday made an appropriation of $450 million for this type of public works program and cities who plan to share in this will have to have plans completed within a very short time. The money will be allocated on a first come basis, and it is likely that all of these funds will be allocated within the next two or three months.

The annual Candlelight Communion Service will be held at the Presbyterian Church tonight at 7:30. The sanctuary will be illuminated by candles only except for the illuminated cross.

A feature of the Service each year is the singing of all the hymns from memory. The members of the congregation take part in the Scripture reading by giving their favorite Bible verses or passages from memory, as these passages have been written on their hearts.

Presbyterian Special Service

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come and participate in this Service.

The elders who are to serve the Communion Emblems will meet in the sanctuary at seven o'clock.

Medicare Costly
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dr. H. King Wade of Hot Springs, president of the Arkansas Medical Society, says the AMS estimates President Kennedy's administration bill for medical care would cost Arkansas taxpayers $6,300,000 the first year. Wade said the tax may be higher because insurance actuaries believe the program may cost twice as much as the administration says it will. The figure given was based on the administration's estimate of the cost of the program, he said.

the position of the sub.
Anderson, asked if any occupants of the sub might be alive, said:

"In my judgment, no."
Asked how long the men in the sub might have lived, the Navy's top admiral said a "very, very short time," perhaps a matter of minutes.

At least up to the time Anderson made his announcement the Navy had been fighting against the longest odds, compounded by foul weather and the depth of the water, and hoping for a miracle: the area with the latest search.

Ships were concentrated over and rescue gear and more were speeding to the point where the Thresher cocked its bow planes Wednesday morning at 9:17 and went down for a deep dive test.

But the admiral's words put all but the final seal on the Navy's worst peacetime submarine disaster, perhaps its worst of all time.

Even as hope flickered toward extinction, the search effort continued in full force.

By HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy held out little hope today—save for some miracle of the sea—for the nuclear submarine Thresher and its 129 men, lost in 8,400 feet of ocean depths about 220 miles east of Boston.

It would be the Navy's worst peacetime submarine disaster—ATHLETE'S FOOT GERM HOW TO KILL IT. IN 3 DAYS.

If not pleased with strong, instant-drying T-4-L, your 48c back at any drug store. Watch infected skin slough off. Watch healthy skin replace it. Itch and burning are gone. TODAY at Gibson Drug Co.

and perhaps the worst in history. Aboard were 96 enlisted men, 16 officers and 17 civilians who were keeping check on the test run.

One possible clue to the craft's fate was an oil slick—the black sign of a broken submarine—which was sighted by search vessels just before darkness Wednesday.

But the Navy kept one flicker of hope alive for its missing comrades aboard the fleet's fastest and deepest diving combat-type submarine. Spokesmen said there was the possibility the Thresher, which vanished at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday, had surfaced in stormy seas and was unable to radio.

On this outside chance the Navy threw ships and planes into a continuing search. But Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, said Wednesday night that although he was still hopeful, he was "not optimistic."

If the submarine had plummeted to 8,400 feet—the depth of the Atlantic at the Thresher's last reported position—the submarine would have been crushed by the massive weight of water.

Anderson said there would be no chance for the crew to survive at that depth or to make a rescue. There was no indication of suspicious ships or submarines in the area when the submarine disappeared, the Navy said.

The sleek Thresher was last heard from as it plunged in a steep test dive which the Pentagon said was to have been "in excess of 400 feet."

It was then that the Thresher's escort vessel, the submarine rescue ship Skylark, lost contact with it and sent out the alarm that triggered the sea hunt.

After hours of fruitless search for the attack submarine, which does not carry Polaris missiles, the Navy announced bleakly that the Thresher was "overdue and presumed missing."

Thinks Being Middle-Aged Is Just Fine

By HAL BOYCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Who, being middle-aged, would ever want to be young again?

When you're young you wait impatiently at life's second table to be served. When you're middle-aged you point pontifically at the roast beef as it comes hot from the oven and say, "I'll have a slice there."

That's the big advantage of being middle-aged. You know better how to pick and choose among life's various possibilities. You learn to prefer durable contentments to present dissatisfactions.

It is the dream of youth to gallop toward every goal. It is a satisfaction of middle age to appreciate any distance you no longer have to march.

Youth eagerly tries to lift itself up by its bootstraps. Middle age would rather take its shoes off and rest on the sofa.

Youth believes you can mail away a box top with a quarter and you'll get something back that will make life greater, happier or better. Middle age prefers to hold on to the quarter.

When the sap flows freely in the ambitious sapling, it tries desperately to climb the sun. When the sap flows slower, the older tree is glad enough to be able to hold up its arms and take the climate as it comes.

The young dog winces and cries in the throes of puppy love. His elder watches the pretty ones go by, sighs reminiscently, and is grateful that a gay old dog can't be taught new tricks.

In youth one chases the horizon from dawn to dusk. In middle age one goes to bed before midnight comfortably sure that by morning the horizon will still be announcement, the gray-haired Anderson stepped in front of the bright television lights of a Pentagon news conference and said, "for those of us brought up in the traditions of the sea, one of the saddest occasions is when one of our ships is lost, which appears to be the case today."

Anderson said there was "absolutely no chance of nuclear explosion in the submarine, nor is there any danger of radioactive contamination in the shipping lanes."

But he wouldn't hazard a guess as to what may have happened. That, he said, would be up to a court of inquiry already appointed.

Soon the Pentagon's duplicating machines were turning out the names of the missing men. For hours the Navy held up the announcement the Thresher was missing so as not to worry relatives in case it was a false alarm.

When the word came it swept quickly through Portsmouth, N.H., the seaport town where the Thresher was launched in 1960 and from which it left Tuesday for sea trials after an overhaul. She had been due back this morning.

Navy officers and civilians crowded into the Portsmouth Navy Yard administration building. A barracks was set aside to provide information for relatives of the crew.

What happened to the Thresher may remain forever a mystery of the sea.

Woman Outtalked This Robber

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—A woman owner and operator of a suburban grocery and market at Camden has out-talked a would-be robber and persuaded him to leave without any money.

Mrs. Jesse Watkins, who has operated Samuel's Grocery in Camden since her husband's death reported to police that shortly after 9 p.m. Monday a young white man entered her store with his hand under his jacket. She was alone in the store at the time, she said.

Mrs. Watkins said he pulled a pistol and asked her for $20. She said she did not have that much and then he demanded $10. She told him that she had no money and her talk must have been convincing—he left.

Mrs. Watkins said she was nervous "with that gun barrel in my face all that time."

Doctor Succumbs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. J. Harry Hays, 58, a native of Rosebud, Tex., who has practiced medicine at Little Rock since 1934, died Wednesday. He was vice president of the Section on General Surgery of the American Medical Association and president of the American Society of Abdominal Surgeons.

safely there to admire, no more perilously near than before.

When young, one feels the urge to write long and passionate love letters. As age takes its toll, one fakes a nostalgic delight in reading someone else's foolish letters in the tabloids while munching a sandwich.

Youth is a desperate struggle in uncertainty; middle age is a thoughtful yawn of knowledge.

Youth doubts; age knows. There is no place that youth feels it can't get to. There is no place that middle age would rather be than here.

Youth argues with the wife; age just turns off the hearing aid and sits back and listens.

The young man wonders if he can ever pile up enough money. The older man feels pretty sure he can't.

The young man forgets his health. The older man is always reminded of it by his diseases. Youth can't wait to be hurt; age recoils from pain by remembering days of gladness.

To the young the day is swift and the years seem long. To those older, each day is a forever but the years fleet by on invisible wings—so that afterward he never is quite sure where they flew.

Who, being middle-aged, would ever want to be young again?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I'm at the crossroads; my husband beckons one way, my parents pull the other. I married a navy serviceman five years ago. The financial going was rough but we weathered the storms and were happy sharing the same interests and dreams. Then, almost imperceptibly, my husband changed. He would interrupt when I was talking, rudely telling me before friends to shut up. Loving him, I took a back seat. Then, one morning at breakfast, he said, "I don't love you any more. Your kisses leave me cold."

My parents gave me shelter and I got a job which I still have, and who should turn up the following month but my husband! Claimed he'd made a dreadful mistake and loved only me. I took him back and he got the first steady job he ever had to prove he meant what he said. We floated on Cloud Nine for three months. Again he abruptly announced that we'd better call it quits for good, giving as an excuse that he was all mixed up. I agreed and once more returned home. My father said if I ever went back to that "off-again-on-again Finnegan," he'd disown me.

Recently my husband got in touch with me and we are secretly dating. I love him and always shall but hesitate to revive our marriage because of my parents.

I filed suit for divorce; the hearing will be soon. If it comes out in court that I've been secretly dating my husband, my folks and the lawyer will think I've lost my sense. I love my father and mother but it hurts me to see them so opposed to their own son-in-law. Should I listen to them or him? —Torn-in-Two.

Dear Torn: Who's mixed up, your husband or you? After all these quarrels and reconciliations you should have some idea of what you want. If you love your husband as much as you say, stick with him regardless of your parents.

My advice would be to find yourself a job in another city where you can think this through alone. You and your husband act like a couple of kids; he's holding at the first upset, you running home to Mama and Papa. By now knowing your own mind you are being very unfair to them and to your lawyer. Until you find the courage to settle this problem yourself, once and for all, everybody concerned will suffer. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Divorce and Separation."

Dear Helen: I began dating when only 12 and going steady at 13. Now I wish my parents hadn't let me. At 18 my boy friends and I act like an old married couple. It grows harder for me every day to resist his pleading that I go all the way to prove my love. We're out of school but he needs a college degree to get the kind of job he wants. That means four years before we can marry. As of now, he's too immature to assume the responsibilities of marriage. While I don't blame my parents, I wouldn't be in this awful mess if they had forbidden me to date when I was only 12. Please print this in the hope that it will make the other kids think twice before dating so young. Any advice for me? —Miss Experience

Dear Miss: To say you wouldn't be in this mess if your parents hadn't been over-lenient is a flimsy justification for your present dilemma. Unless you develop the character to say No, you're headed for trouble. While going steady may give a boy and a girl a certain amount of security, it isn't the same thing as marriage. Yet it involves propinquity and that in itself is a hazard, especially for the young and inexperienced. Too few people, young or old, have the common sense to appreciate the dangers. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Sex Education for Teenagers."

More Steel

Wheeling Steel Corp.'s price increase, which triggered the new uproar, was linked to the possibility of a round of wage increases for the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America.

An influential Democratic legislator, who would not be quoted by name, said he understood that the continuing, informal talks in the industry's "Human Relations Committee" were pointing to an upward pay adjustment.

The USW, he said he was advised, might in return yield some ground on working rules and conditions in contract talks which can be reopened after April 30 upon demand of USW President David J. McDonald.

The off-the-record comment of a few other Democratic Congress members suggested they would not oppose some reasonable wage increase for the steelworkers, who accepted only modest "fringe" improvements last year instead of higher pay rates.

Several Republican senators said the agreement should keep its hands off the situation.

Kennedy went into a series of meetings Wednesday with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, and a parade of others.

Black limousines belonging to high officials were parked at the White House until late evening. The only report to leak was that, up to late afternoon, "no conclusions were reached."

As in the bitter struggle of exactly one year ago, the country's balance of payments deficit is at the heart of the administration's opposition to a steel price boost which would spread sooner or later to autos and thousands of other products.

Officials pointed out that steel's loss of export markets to lower-priced foreign producers has been a major contributor to the payments problem.

The trade balance in steel and steel mill products shifted from a $500 million surplus in the mid 1950s to no surplus in 1961. U.S. steel prices climbed 16 percent relative to the major foreign competitors.

Steelmen took the position that without more profit they cannot modernize; without modernization they cannot cut costs; and without lower costs they cannot even compete with some foreign steels in the U.S. market.

No other steel company had indicated, up to Wednesday night, whether it would or would not follow Wheeling's lead.

Other pork cut bargains include loin roasts and chops.

Beef cuts are also in good supply and attractively priced, with special bargains showing up in chuck roasts and rib roasts.

A big chain offers rib roasts at 55 cents a pound in its New York area outlets.

Poultry offerings this weekend are varied and attractive. Turkeys are featured at about 39 cents a pound. Hens for roasting and baking are bargain-tagged in the Southeast and Midwest.

Eggs are low-priced in most areas. Large whites are offered at 46 cents a dozen by one chain in the Northeast and in the South-east, egg prices are about the lowest they have been since last August.

Holiday fruit attractions include strawberries, apples, bananas, grapefruit, fresh pineapples and canned freestone peaches.

Youth Plan Approved by the Senate

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has approved President Kennedy's program to put thousands of American youths to work on conservation and community projects.

But before the youngsters can be sent into parks and forests and into local hospitals and libraries, the House will have to give its approval. And this, administration lieutenants concede, is no sure thing.

Kennedy men in the Senate had promised to pass the youth employment bill before Easter. They made good Wednesday night, but it took a 12-hour session, longest of the year, before the 50-34 vote was rolled up.

Although the House Labor Committee has approved a bill close to the Senate version, House Republicans promise a stiff fight and Democratic leaders say they do not know if the bill will be passed.

It won't be called up for debate until the holiday recess ends April 22 and floor consideration is unlikely before May, said administration leaders in the House.

The legislation deals with two programs which, proponents say, will eventually provide up to 100,000 jobs a year to those in the 16-21 age bracket.

One would send youths into camps in a federal conservation corps patterned after the old CCC of the 1930s. The other would establish a state and community force to work on local public service projects.

China Wants U.S., Russia to Fight

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China's advice to Russia about the United States—"let's you and him fight"—is getting the same practical answer: Nothing doing.

Premier Khrushchev this week turned down Mao Tse-tung's mid-March invitation to Peking and instead invited him to Moscow. This is like saying the general never goes to see a private.

But, while Khrushchev also gave Mao some advice on first things first, it's easy to see why the Russian won't let the Chinese sic him on the United States.

Although Russia and Red China are neighbors of the Great Eurasian land mass, Russia has all the nuclear weapons, China none. This makes Russia a potential threat to China, even though both are Communist.

It's already been demonstrated—in Albania, Yugoslavia, Poland, and above all in the Russian-Chinese split—that communism doesn't mean unity. Nationalism, running deeper, is the stronger force.

The Russians and Chinese are nationalists before they are Communists. Their mutual communism hasn't replaced their individual nationalism. Therefore, the Russians have reason to suspect Chinese intentions, too.

In any nuclear war between communism and the United States, Russia and this country, out of nuclear necessity, would have to concentrate on knocking each other out.

Both would be flattened, along with Western Europe.

Red China, because it is not a nuclear force, would probably be untouched in the missile exchange. The West wouldn't want to use up on China missiles which might be needed to eliminate Russia.

And even if the Chinese got hit, they could afford to lose more people than the Russians since they have about three times as many.

When the fires on two continents died down, the Chinese, comparatively untouched or untouched altogether, would be the dominant force in East and West.

It doesn't take brains to figure that out and the Russians aren't stupid.

Khrushchev and Mao in their letter exchange laid down four main points for discussion—if they met.

Oddly enough, both put Communist unity last although it might be supposed they'd put unity above everything if they took the trouble to get together to discuss what disunited them.

While the Chinese put "strategy and tactics of the revolution in the contemporary world" first on the agenda of a summit meeting, the Russians' No. 1 item was strengthening the Communist effort to convert the world.

Khrushchev refused to make any change in his cold war strategy, which is what irked the Chinese in the first place. Khrushchev saw no reason to revise his "peaceful coexistence" line.

"Revolutions are quite possible without wars," he instructed Mao.

It's unlikely that any Western leader has been nippy enough to think Khrushchev's "peaceful coexistence" means he wants to be a good neighbor or even that by peace he means an absence of war.

About the only meaning which could be placed on his words—judging, for instance, from what's been happening in Viet Nam for years—is this:

Because of the prospect of mutual annihilation in an all-out war with the United States, he's content to nibble at the West with limited wars instead of trying his luck at one big gobble in a big war.

The United States certainly is anticipating that by building up its conventional forces.

But the balmy front of peaceful coexistence is broad enough to

Largest Herd of Elephants to Appear With Circus in Hope

100 Tons of Dainty Pachyderms who will appear in Hope on Sunday, April 14, with the Al G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus — Sponsored by the Hope Jaycees the Circus will have one performance only at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The largest herd of elephants with a traveling show will be seen in Hope when the Al G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus erects its mammoth tented city at Fair Park showgrounds.

There are almost 100 tons of ponderous pachyderms with the circus this season ranging from 950 to 6,000 pounds and spanning in age from 6 to 92 years.

In addition to being the world's largest terrestrial mammal, elephants are curious beasts. Intelligent and usually docile, they are quick to learn. Like humans, they have their likes and dislikes.

In procession and in the circus production, they must be carefully grouped, for some of the adults dislike some of the children and there are also certain cliques among themselves.

On tour the big beast travel in specially built stock cars, where they are kept comfortable with bales of hay and grain.

Marching is a matter of training to the big beasts. At winter quarters, they take a daily constitutional to keep them in shape and to accustom them to crowds, automobiles and traffic noises.

They're also the hardest workers on the circus lot, being called upon to push trucks and wagons into place and to haul vehicles mired in mud.

An elephant eats approximately 100 pounds of hay per day, from 18 to 20 pounds of grains and all the peanuts he can beg from the kiddies. He'll drink up to 25 gallons of water per day.

Elephants in parade are always made to "tail-up" — curl their trunk tips around the tail of the elephant immediately ahead. The reason for this is that the behemoths are inveterate souvenir snatchers and if their trunks were not occupied they would snatch ladies pocketbooks, hats, canes or anything else within reach.

Circus people call all elephants "Bulls" although most of the beasts appearing with circuses today are females. Male elephants are too unpredictable for safe contact with crowds.

One hour before each performance of the Al G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus at 1:30 and 7 p.m. the giant traveling menagerie containing the herd of elephants will be open. In addition to the elephants over 200 rare and wild animals will be on display. The big circus performance will start at 3:00 p.m. one show only.

include every trick, including blackmail, short of either big or little wars. For instance, putting missiles in Cuba.

All Khrushchev has really ever said is that he's not in a hurry. The fact that the Chinese are urging the opposite is enough to make them suspect to the Russians.

A DEAD ENDING

THE STORY: Cornelius Ryan is sure that the cheap clip-on necktie that was found at the scene of Dennis Hooper's murder belonged to his client Matt Higby, who is suspected of the crime. Police have not caught on that the tie may be Higby's yet, and the suspect is released to Ryan, his attorney.

X

Higby and I went out onto the street.

He looked at me. "They found my tie in young Hooper's apartment?"

"Yes."

"You didn't tell them it was mine?"

"I'm your lawyer buster, remember?" I was blowing off steam to get rid of the tensions that had built up when Cash dropped that tie on the desk.

"I was there, Corby," he said quietly. "But I didn't kill him. He was already dead when I got there."

"Who saw you?"

"It's a self-service apartment building," he said. "I don't think anyone saw me."

"We better go somewhere and talk," I said.

"I'm going to Frances," he said. "She must have had a rough time. They wouldn't let me call her."

"We'd better talk, scum, before Cash finds out that's your tie and really lets you have it."

"Frances first," he said. A cab came down the block and he signaled it. Then he looked at me with those bright blue eyes. "I would have killed him for putting his hands on Frances," he said. "but I was too late."

He opened the cab door and got in. Then, as I started to follow him he closed the door in my face big green leather armchair and went around behind his desk. "The police still holding him?"

"I sprung him half an hour ago," I said.

"I'm glad to hear it. I rather like what I know about the old boy," Canaday said. "How can I help you?"

"My primary interest in Higby until last night," I said, "was the possibility of bringing an action against General Lee Hooper for slander."

Canaday nodded. "I wondered if Higby'd let that 'known murderer' business ride."

"I think Higby may have a case," I said. "The ticklish thing about a suit of that is what else besides that facts about the main issue may be dug up. Higby says his record's clear. I want to make sure of it before I project him into something he'll regret."

"Most of us here have some kind of legal training," Canaday said, leaning back in his desk swivel chair. "When General Hooper sprang that crack about 'known murderer' at a hearing attended by the press I figured his neck was way out. I told myself if Higby brought an action against Hooper I'd know I was in the clear. Want me to summarize my report for you?"

"Please," I said.

"Our job here is to lock the barn door before the horse is stolen," Canaday said. "We investigate all allegations of any wrongdoing by anyone connected with racing, even the wildest kind of gossip. We try to keep undesirable out instead of catching them after they get in. A man wants to own and race horses — we check him out, but good. We dig for facts, we listen to rumor and gossip about him. Maybe you'll feel easier if I tell you that I know — without legal proof — that Matthew Higby was a boot-legger before repeal."

"You expected me?" I said.

Canaday pointed to a news ticker in the corner of his office. "Somebody was bound to show up to ask what we knew about Matt Higby. He was my baby. I've got it all here." He waved me to a

Famous Hull House Being Torn Down

By CHARLES-GENE MCDANIEL

CHICAGO (AP) — Hull House, the fruition of a girl's dream and a world-famed monument to humanity, is being torn down in the name of progress.

The 74-year-old settlement just west of Chicago's Loop has been sold, after some dickering, to the city of Chicago for $175,000. It is to be razed to make way for a new four-year branch of the University of Illinois.

The work of Hull House will continue under a dispersed program in various areas of the city.

The Hull House complex of 13 buildings, covering more than a block, developed and became known the world over under the guidance of Jane Addams winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1931.

All but one of the soot-begrimed, red brick buildings in a densely populated, industrial neighborhood of many nationalities will be torn down to make way for a modern university.

The university has agreed to preserve as a memorial to Miss Addams the original Hull House, the building in which she and her friend Ellen Gates Starr founded the settlement in 1889.

Miss Addams, who died in 1935, was born in 1860 in Cedarville, in northwest Illinois. The famous settlement she founded was patterned after Toynbee Hall in London.

Hull House was born of the compassion of the child Jane Addams. When she was six and driving with her prosperous father through a poverty-stricken area of an industrial city, she saw children playing in dirty streets and dusty yards beside shabby little houses.

She was moved to comment. "When I grow up I'm going to have a big house and I'm going to ask all those children to come over and play."

Twenty-three years later, after graduation from Rockford College and travel in Europe, she returned to Chicago and found that big house at 800 S. Halsted St., one that had been the mansion of Charles Hull, an early citizen of Chicago.

Not only children came to play, but adults came and found help in time of trouble, a place of recreation, beauty through art and music, and escape from grim surroundings.

Immigrants came to learn the language and ways of a new land. The hungry were fed.

During the first year Hull House was open, 50,000 persons came.

Truce Called in Pine Bluff Racial Fuss

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A temporary truce has been called in the Pine Bluff racial battle while anti-segregation demonstrators negotiate with civic leaders.

The negotiations are being held in secret and the names of the negotiators have not been announced. There has been no word on what progress, if any, they have made.

Robert Whitfield, leader of the Pine Bluff Movement, an anti-segregation group made up mostly of young Negroes, said his group would hold no more sit-in or stand-in demonstrations during the negotiations.

City Atty. George Holmes asked Municipal Court last week to pass trials of 49 Negroes arrested in connection with the demonstrations. All are free on bond. Whitfield is among them.

It was reported that about four or five persons were negotiating for each side over segregated facilities.

The Negroes have held demonstrations at a downtown theater, hotel and variety store, lunch counter and at a suburban drug-store lunch counter. The arrests came as a result of the theater and hotel demonstrations.

"At this point the situation is very touchy," Whitfield said. "What we're fighting for during all these months is just around the corner."

Holmes confirmed that the negotiations were going on and said the atmosphere surrounding the talks would be enhanced if the Negroes' trials were postponed. Attorneys are to file briefs in the cases by April 30.

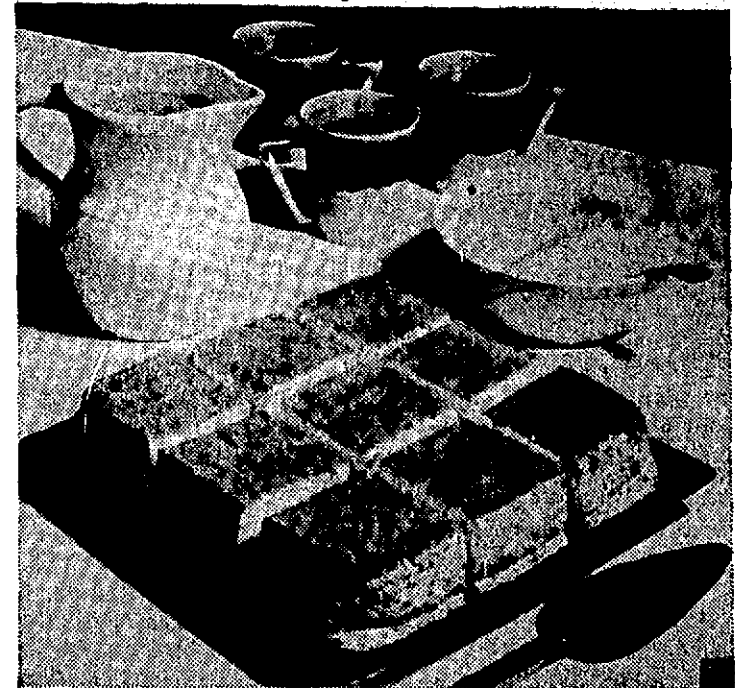

Only minor outbreaks of violence have been reported during the demonstrations, which began early in February. Several demonstrators were reported knocked down by white persons and once stone-throwing white youths chased demonstrators several blocks into a Negro church.

The Rev. Arthur Robinson, pastor of the church and an organizer of meetings of the demonstrators, said a voter registration drive would be held for Negroes. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People held such a drive last year and registered 3,905 Negroes, an increase of more than 500 from a year earlier.

Leaders of the Pine Bluff Movement said they knew nothing of a voter registration drive.

Tops For Teens

Crazy Cake!

When a teenager likes something, it is likely to be termed "crazy"—or even "real cool." This real cool refrigerator cake comes to the party, is so delicious it is called Crazy Cake.

Because the cake is made with reliable unflavored gelatin, it requires no cooking. The unflavored gelatin is dissolved in boiling water, chilled slightly, and then combined with the other ingredients. Then Crazy Cake simply chills until done, and comes to the party with a tangy Lemon Sauce.

Crazy Cake

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/4 cup boiling water
1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup fine graham cracker crumbs (about 8 crackers)
3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water in 3-quart mixing bowl to soften. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in sugar; chill slightly (15 minutes in refrigerator). Grease 9-inch square pan; sprinkle 1/2 of the graham cracker crumbs over bottom and sides of pan. Add egg whites, salt and vanilla to gelatin mixture. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer about 10 minutes or until mixture is light and fluffy. Turn into pan; sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Refrigerate until firm. Make Lemon Sauce* while dessert is chilling. To serve, cut cake into 3-inch squares and top with Lemon Sauce. Yield: 9 servings.

*Lemon Sauce

3 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup heavy cream

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Stir in sugar, melted butter, lemon juice and grated rind. Whip cream; fold into lemon mixture.

Change in Canada Is Assured

By MAX HARRELSON

TORONTO (AP) — Despite the confusion surrounding the outcome of Monday's election, it seems likely that Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker can at best only delay the formation of a Liberal government.

In order to maintain his conservative government in power, Diefenbaker would have to have the support of both the right-wing Social Credit party and the left-wing New Democrats. This does not appear probable.

If and when Liberal party leader Lester B. Pearson gets the bid to form a government, he is prepared to launch a blitz attack on a half-dozen urgent problems, including the sagging U.S.-Canadian relations.

His prospective Cabinet members have been working for months on economic, financial, defense and foreign policy problems. Pearson has indicated he aims to follow the pattern on the famous 100 days of the New Deal in Washington.

Says Foreign Aid Keeping World Free

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Aid Director David E. Bell said today U.S. military and economic aid to underdeveloped countries "is helping to wage the epic battle of our time, the battle between freedom and communism."

Bell, chief of the Agency for International Development made the statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee which is considering the administration's pared-down request for a $4.5-billion foreign aid budget in the coming year.

While emphasizing the continuing need for foreign aid, Bell told the committee, "I take it we are all in agreement that our programs of economic and military assistance should be designed to be self-terminating."

"The purpose of our efforts," he said, "is to help other countries get on their own feet and achieve a position in which they can sustain economic growth and, where necessary, military strength without extraordinary outside help."

Bell said that has happened in Europe since 1950, and "today the termination of the need for development loans on 'soft' terms is clearly in sight for additional

The 65-year-old Nobel Prize winner has stressed over and over that he wants to pursue a good neighbor policy. He says he deplores anti-Americanism and what he calls "plucking the eagle's feathers."

Anti-Americanism was injected into the campaign, primarily by the Conservatives, but Diefenbaker insisted it was pro-Canadianism. The vote did not give any clear sign that the issue had influenced the decision.

Mandate or no mandate, Pearson is expected to put a priority tag on the task of patching up the tradition of friendship with the United States.

It would be a mistake, however, to conclude that the days of friction between Ottawa and Washington will end with the formation of a Liberal government. Both defense and economic differences are too wide for immediate solution.

The question of accepting nuclear warheads raises immediate difficulties. Although Pearson declared during the campaign that he favored accepting the warheads to the extent necessary to carry out Canada's commitments, he has never been enthusiastic about having nuclear weapons on Canadian soil. Until last January he was publicly opposing such a step.

History Will Remember Churchill

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Long after Sir Winston Churchill is gone men will trudge around his memory, like scholars around a pyramid, wondering how he was put together.

The ceremony for him today, giving him honorary American citizenship at 88, is both a tribute to a man and recognition of a monument. The man and the monument were built out of many unhappy experiences.

Language was his magic cement. His greatest triumph perhaps was within himself. For 65 years he searched for acceptance, starting when he was a child. His father had little time for him and, apparently, small esteem. When he was 21 his father died. Churchill regretted it for more reasons than one. Years later, looking back, he wrote that he had been eagerly awaiting the day when his father would accept him as an equal.

This quest for acceptance may explain much of his life: his brassiness, pushiness, endless airing of opinions, and his compulsion to dominate. They were tools he used to jimmy the door to distinction.

They only brought him disregard until under pressure of war the door opened and he became a cherished figure of history. His father would have had to accept him then, but probably with astonishment.

This was only one side of Churchill. While he thrilled to conflict, he loved life. This more than anything, made the contrast between him and Hitler look like the difference between a wolf and a shepherd.

Konrad Heiden, a biographer of Hitler but not an admirer of his sensitivity, said Der Fuehrer was a "child of nature quite capable of trying a chop over a Stradivarius violin."

Edgar Black, one of Churchill's biographers, said he scared his African guides when he went wandering around the Uganda lion country with a butterfly net. He loved butterflies.

Hitler went in for magic, astrology and quack doctors. One of his physicians said he aged rapidly after the war began. By the time Hitler at 56 killed himself in a Berlin bunker in 1945 he looked senile.

Churchill, too civilized for quacks or magic, grew hearty on war and late hours, and nearing 69, wanted to take part in the Normandy invasion. Only the king stopped him. He wasn't easily deterred in any direction.

He got a brain concussion at 5 when he fell off a donkey. At 18 he fell 29 feet into a ravine, ruptured a kidney, was unconscious three days and in bed three months.

He had pneumonia several times, suffered a bunch of broken bones when a taxi hit him in 1932 in New York, and had a hernia operation in 1947. A stroke hit him in 1950 and another in 1953. He broke a hip in 1962.

When he got pneumonia in 1943, one of his doctors told him pneumonia is the "old man's friend" because it "take them off so easily." In his memoirs Churchill said "I made a suitable reply." He didn't put it in print.

It was one of the comedies of history when Churchill, who tried to dominate all conversations, complained that Roosevelt tried to dominate.

Roosevelt had reservations about the ideas which bubbled out of Churchill—he said "Winston had a hundred ideas a day and about four are good"—but the ideas were part of his zeal.

He said the need for military aid to Greece and China will undoubtedly continue longer.

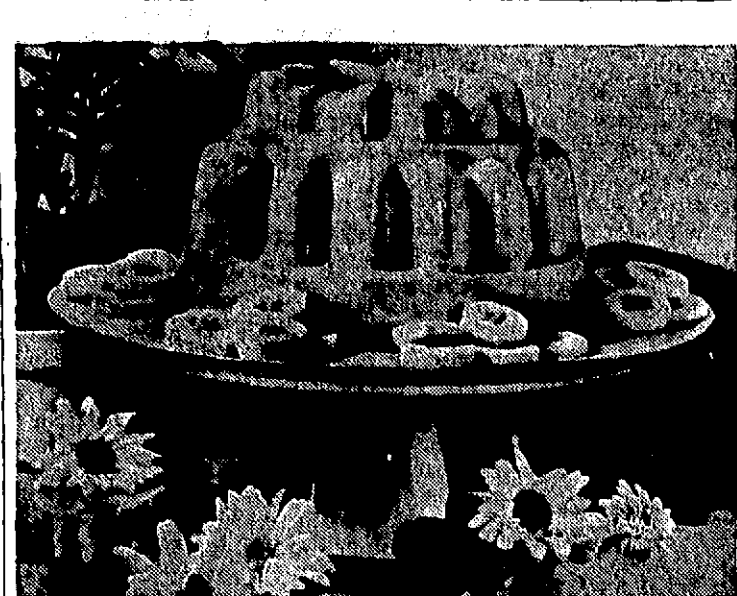

In other cases, Bell said, "The end is not yet in sight—but it is clearly in mind. It will take some years for countries like Korea, India, Pakistan and Turkey to achieve economic self-support—but clearly that should be their target, and ours."

Bell emphasized "what is at stake," saying:

"The powerful outreach of Communist aggression—working by subversion, by infiltration, by insurgency, by whatever means an implacable will can devise, is moving in Southeast Asia, standing on the borders of India, Pakistan, Turkey, and Korea, hovering over Africa, seeking to expand its foothold in the Western Hemisphere."

Two rough spots in foreign relations—left-leaning Indonesia and the vendetta between India and Pakistan over Kashmir—have drawn repeated critical attention in the hearings.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Monday he felt the rather limited military assistance program for Indonesia should be continued but phased down in coming years. He acknowledged that Russia has poured $900 million worth of military assistance into Indonesia.

SPRINGTIME is captured for the palate in banana chiffon mold, with orange-lemon accent.

Another biographer, Robert Lewis Taylor, saw that same zeal when Churchill painted: "A gigantic easel, a light blue smock, and a flapping beret the size of a small tent."

"In the words of one of his friends: 'He was a hell of a sight, if you know what I mean.'"

Churchill, like his idol, Edward Gibbon, had a compassion for the loneliness of nouns and hardly ever let them go unescorted by an adjective. The nouns weren't always prime and the adjectives weren't always proper.

The British philosopher, C. E. M. Joad, summed up Churchill in a sentence: "When the crisis came he turned out to be the average Englishman but the average Englishman raised to the nth degree."

Scholarship Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Contractors Licensing Board has announced the creation of a $30,000 scholarship fund from its reserve funds.

The announcement said the fund will be used to educate young men and women of Arkansas who plan to enter the architectural, engineering or construction industry of the state.

The University of Arkansas will receive two $500 scholarships and two $250 scholarships each year for four years. Eight other colleges will receive one $500 and $250 scholarship each year for four years.

The board receives its funds from fees paid by contractors. It asked the presidents of each institution to appoint a committee of faculty members to select the annual scholarship recipients.

Airport Manager

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — K. V. Turney, a Rogers aviation mechanic, has been put in charge of operations of the municipal airport here. After renovation, Turney will have the responsibility of keeping the property in good condition. The agreement runs to May 1, 1966.

Pentagon Study May Bring Change

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has started a study that could lead to stiff new rules restricting use of lie detectors in future Pentagon investigations, it was learned today.

"The secretary of defense is looking into policies relating to use of lie detectors," an informed source told The Associated Press. Officials said the only relevant Defense Department document to show up so far in a search of the files was a 1952 "memo of record" signed by then Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett.

In that memo, Lovett ruled that the lie detector might be used only in certain special cases.

Pending the outcome of McNamara's study, sources said it was unlikely any Pentagon investigating agency would try to use a lie detector any time soon.

The fuss churned up because the Air Force investigators—seeking the source of a leak on a memo dealing with the Senate probe of the TFX fighter plane contract—had asked about 120 of officers and civilians of the Defense Department, the Air Force and Navy to sign a paper consenting to a lie detector test.

Three high Pentagon officials signed the paper, but Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of a defense, refused to do so "as a matter of principle." Three other persons also refused to sign.

No lie detector tests actually were given in the 12-day hunt for the person who leaked to a Washington Star reporter an unclassified copy of an Air Force memo. This memo complained that some Air Force witnesses had been browbeaten by interrogators for the Senate investigations subcommittee.

McNamara, who ordered the Air Force investigation, reportedly directed that it be halted after he learned of the lie detector involvement.

The Air Force probe ended Wednesday and the Air Force said its inspector general, Lt. Gen. W. H. Blanchard, would now study the material he had collected. There was no indication when a finding might be forthcoming.

Low Rent Housing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ideas on maintenance of low-rent housing units will be exchanged Monday and Tuesday by representatives of public housing authorities in 44 Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas cities. The two-day meeting of the group at Little Rock is sponsored by the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials and the Public Housing Administration.

Britt Plans a Plant at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A former University of Arkansas football star and congressional Medal of Honor winner announced today that he would locate an aluminum siding manufacturing plant in Little Rock.

Madrice (Footsie) Britt, an All-Southwest Conference end with the 1935-39-40 Razorbacks, said his firm, Beautyguard Manufacturing Co. of Arkansas, Inc., would employ 35 to 40 persons in the manufacture, distribution and sale of the product.

Announcement of the industry was made in a news conference at the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce.

Britt said he had received the Arkansas franchise for manufacture and sale of Beautyguard siding from Craver Industries, Inc., of Charleston, S.C.

Craver developed the equipment and processing method which Britt's plant will use.

Britt is a native of Carlisle. He attended Lonoke public schools and, after graduation from the University of Arkansas in 1941, he played professional football with the Detroit Lions for one season before going into the Army two days before the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Britt took part in the African, Sicilian and Italian invasions, losing his right arm in the Anzio campaign in Italy. He won the Congressional Medal of Honor for gallantry at Mount Rotondo.

Britt said the aluminum for processing in his plant would be made by the Reynolds and Kaiser companies with the finish applied in advance by Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. will furnish insulation material for the plant.

Britt said his initial investment would be about $100,000, but that this would increase if the firm was able to add manufacture of aluminum roofing and decorator panels to its line.

TASTE OF SPRING is in every mouthful of tender pineapple and cornbread-stuffed ham steaks.

A sales office will be established in Fort Smith, Britt said, and if it is successful, another will be located in Jonesboro and others will be scattered around the state later.

Britt said between 50 and 100 similar plants would be located around the nation.

Review of TFX Contract Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt said today cancellation of the disputed TFX warplane contract and a fresh start on negotiations "certainly is within the realm of possibility."

However, at the Pentagon, a Defense Department spokesman said Sunday night that the General Dynamics Corp., Fort Worth, Tex., which holds the contract, has been given no instructions to slow down or change pace in the development of the plane.

Work on producing 22 test aircraft is going ahead and the company will soon be sent $23 million, the next payment under an initial design contract of $28 million.

Mundt, of South Dakota, is the senior Republican member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, which has been looking into the award of any signs of favoritism.

He told a reporter the subcommittee has invited both General Dynamics and the Boeing Co., Seattle, Wash.—credited by some military evaluators as promising a better, safer and cheaper plane—to submit written statements defending their design as a prelude to testimony expected later from their top officials. The hearings may resume Tuesday.

Pro-West Group Wins in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Jorge Alessandri's pro-Western coalition easily defeated a Communist-led alliance in municipal elections that were a warmup for the presidential campaign of 1964.

Red hopes of taking over Chile next year dwindled with mounting returns today from the 1.8-million votes cast Sunday.

Why is Borden's the milk for children?

JUST THE RIGHT AMOUNT OF CREAM FOR FLAVOR CHILDREN LIKE!

Every half gallon of Borden's Milk contains almost two cups of cream. That's more cream than required by government regulations. Borden's standard of excellence always goes beyond minimum legal requirements. Plenty of rich cream gives extra flavor to Borden's Homogenized Milk. Every last sip tastes so good that children, the best judges of milk flavor, often ask for another glass.

Thinks U.S. Propaganda Is Effective

By LEN TALIAFERRO

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Edward R. Murrow said Monday that communist countries are producing more propaganda but U.S. propaganda is more effective.

The U.S. Information Agency director was in Little Rock to speak at a meeting of the Little Rock Sales and Marketing Executives Club.

He said much communist propaganda was composed of the texts of Marx and Lenin which is of little interest to the average reader.

Murrow also pointed out that the U.S. does not include books, magazines and other materials, which have overseas publication, as part of its propaganda effort. He said, however, these serve the same purpose as propaganda.

He said the USIA is currently broadcasting 761 hours a week compared to 1205 by the Russians.

During the Cuban crisis, the USIA made a concentrated effort to beam news into Cuba, Murrow said. He said the agency utilized the Voice of America, two of its own small portable transmitters and 10 private radio stations to broadcast to Cuba.

Currently two portable transmitters are sending to Cuba but Murrow said the effectiveness of USIA broadcasts are almost impossible to determine.

"From talking to refugees, we have been able to determine that Cubans are listening to our broadcasts," he said. He added that radio is the only method the USIA can use to get propaganda into Cuba.

In his speech, Murrow said photos of Russian missile bases circulated by the USIA helped swing world opinion in favor of the U.S.

"The USIA could trace the change in press reaction by following the course of the pictures. Sentiment began to change in favor of the U.S. as soon as the pictures arrived," he said.

The former commentator said work produced by the USIA was at times as good as that produced by the journalistic profession. He said this could not be true all the time because the agency does not have the funds necessary to produce on a professional scale.

The director said a big part of the agency's $6 million budget increase last year and its $9 million increase for the current year went for work in Africa and Latin America.

As a result, he said, the addition of a new transmitter system in Latin America has made the U.S. the dominant voice in the area.

"We have also stepped up our broadcasts to Latin America," he said. "Where we only had three hours a day in Spanish and none in Portuguese 1½ years ago, we now have nine in Spanish and three in Portuguese."

Murrow said he thought this country's image had improved considerably in Latin America as a result of the handling of the Cuban situation.

He said a new transmitter system in Liberia which will be in operation soon would make the U.S. the dominant voice in Africa south of the Sahara desert.

Russia, the Red Chinese and the United Arab Republic now are ahead in Africa, he said.

Murrow also said that he did not feel that the American public had been misled by the government in its handling of the news.

Tax Lien Filed

MEMPHIS (AP)—A $304,622 tax lien was filed by the International Revenue Service here Monday against B. Frank Williams, a businessman and land owner at Osceola, Ark. The IRS said Williams, also part owner of a Las Vegas motel, failed to pay that amount in income taxes in 1954, 1955, 1958 and 1960.

Frosting "In A Breeze" Is Frosting To Freeze

So delicate in flavor, so creamy-soft in texture, is this chocolate frosting to freeze that you can use it as a filling as well as a topper for cakes. It's delicious on cake layers whether they are made by your own recipe, from a cake mix, or bought from the store. Use this frosting at once, or freeze it for the future when you want a luscious cake topper in a hurry. It's the type of frosting that takes to debonair swirling for decorative effect, and it's easy to vary with nuts or coconut.

Creamy Semi-Sweet Frosting

1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup evaporated milk
1 jar (7½ ounces) marshmallow cream

Melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels and butter over hot (not boiling) water; blend well. Remove from heat. Gradually add evaporated milk, stirring until smooth. Let cool to room temperature. Add marshmallow cream and beat until smooth. If desired, vary filling by adding nuts or coconut.

Yield: Filling and frosting for two 8 or 9-inch cake layers or frosting for 24 medium cupcakes.

To Freeze: Turn into freezer container, seal. When ready to use, let frosting stand at room temperature until soft enough to spread, approximately 1 hour.

May Salvage Some Skybolt Missile Money

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon may salvage $200 million from the canceled Skybolt missile program, it was disclosed today. That would be more than half the $363 million Congress allotted to the project for this year. The money was voted before the United States decided to cancel the bomber-launched missile last December.

The Defense Department told The Associated Press that studies conducted since the cancellation order indicate $200 million may be available but that the amount cannot be finally determined pending completion of contract termination proceedings.

Any funds recouped will be applied to other defense programs, the Pentagon said.

President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara decided to cut off the Skybolt project because its costs were pyramiding, it had run into serious technical problems and had fallen behind its development schedule.

Last Dec. 12, Kennedy estimated it would cost $2 billion, on top of $500 million already spent, 10 finish developing the 1,100-mile missile and buy operational models.

All production in connection with the Skybolt program was ordered ended on Dec. 31. Research and development work was allowed to continue until Feb. 2.

Clarendon was partially burned by Federal Troops in 1863, and a quantity of Confederate stores were captured.

Austerity Continues in Ohio

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Austerity hit Ohio the day Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes took office. It still is in vogue nearly three months later. Its reverberations have echoed far beyond the borders of the Buckeye State.

Rhodes, who was state auditor for 10 years and before that Columbus mayor and city auditor, terms drastic economy the only way to balance his operating budget without new taxes.

What's more, he says it is the best way to pay off an $80-million deficit inherited from his Democratic predecessor, Michael V. DiSalle, and cut a monthly spending rate of $5 million more than revenues.

Rhodes, 53, calls his efforts "a return to fiscal responsibility in the statehouse." Critics call it other things—among them government by meat ax.

Rhodes' economies have slashed payrolls, poor relief subsidies and spending more quickly and deeply than many expected. The stricture created in Ohio by his austerity drive is attracting attention elsewhere.

When DiSalle left the governor's office, he took his spersonally purchased rug and drapes to his new law office here. Rhodes simply ordered the black and white marble floor polished and moved in. He calls it "the echo chamber."

Rhodes, a 6-foot, 190-pounder, often works in shirt sleeves, puffing a pipe or cigar. He professes a liking for people, politics, hard work, golf and all varieties of cheese.

His stand against new or increased taxes marks the greatest contrast with the four-year administration of DiSalle, who had been President Truman's federal price controller and former Toledo mayor.

To keep his program in high gear, Rhodes relies on Finance Director Richard L. Krabach, 49, an attorney-accountant, and George E. Wilson, 39, his industrial development chief. Rhodes says he is about to offer reorganization legislation estimated to affect 10,000 employees, a total scaled down from 19,000 earlier. Democrats call it ripper legislation.

Criticism sharpened when Welfare Director Denver White cut state subsidies to counties for poor relief last month in the face of an impending $11-million deficit in that division.

On the heels of initial firings, Krabach ordered a 9.1 per cent across-the-board cut to balance state spending against revenues.

He also halted all but emergency purchase of new cars and other equipment, banned most out-of-state travel and induced employees to work "voluntarily" on Lincoln and Washington birthdays without extra holiday pay.

DiSalle's name was blacked out on leftover stationery in the governor's office and Rhodes' name inserted, an example of smaller savings.

DiSalle recently announced he would become chief administrator of a new model city at Reston, Va., about 28 miles from Washington, about May 1.

"In the past four years," DiSalle's statement said, "efforts were made to move Ohio forward."

"Today, in the interest of political expediency, these efforts are being destroyed and yet, with it all, spending continues to increase to the highest level in Ohio's history."

Dental Group Opens Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas State Dental Association will open its annual state convention in Little Rock today.

Some preliminary meetings were held Sunday. The meeting will conclude Wednesday. During the three-day session, Arkansas dentists will hear a d d e s s e d by prominent members of the profession and will discuss new developments in dentistry.

"There has been a systematic attempt to decay and to deny Ohio's needs in the alleged interest of economy."
